

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements.....	11
Foreword by Ammon Cheskin.....	13
Introduction.....	15
Problem statement.....	15
Case selection.....	16
Theoretical approach.....	20
The novelty of the research.....	22
Methodology.....	24
Primary data for analysis.....	27
Structure of the book.....	28
Chapter I.
The Theories of Social Constructionism in Relation to Nation-Building and Social Problems.....	31
1.1. Introduction.....	31
1.2. A Social Constructionist Approach to Nation-Building and the Role of Language Policy in Post-Soviet Space... 34
1.3. A Social Constructionist Approach to the Study of Social Problems.....	42
1.4. Research Programme of J. Kitsuse and P. Ibarra in the Study of Social Problems.....	55
1.5. The Theory of Moral Panics in the Study of Social Problems.....	62
1.6. The Theory of Securitisation and its Applicability to the Study of Language Policy Debates in Estonia, Latvia, and Ukraine.....	70
Summary of Chapter I.....	76

Chapter II.

Methodological Implications of Discourse Analysis..... 79

- 2.1. Theoretical Foundations of Discourse Analysis 79
- 2.2. Reiner Keller's Research Programme on Discourse Analysis..... 84
- 2.3. Using Blogs and News Websites as the Empirical Material for Social Science Research 93
- 2.4. The Selection Criteria for Russian-Language Blogs and News Websites in Estonian, Latvian, and Ukrainian Online Media Space 104
- 2.5. The Process of Analysing Russian-Language Blogs and News Websites in Estonia, Latvia, and Ukraine.... 113

Chapter III.

Language Policy Development

in Contemporary Estonia, Latvia, and Ukraine..... 119

- 3.1. The Characteristics of Language Policy in Ukraine
after the USSR Disintegration 119
 - 3.1.1. Ethnic and Linguistic Composition of the Population in Ukraine 120
 - 3.1.2. The Debates on the Status of the Russian Language in Ukraine 126
 - 3.1.3. Regional Polarisation of Linguistic and Political Preferences 130
 - 3.1.4. Legislation on Language Policy in Ukraine 132
 - 3.1.5. Language Policy in the Sphere of Secondary and Higher Education in Ukraine..... 142
 - 3.1.6. Ukrainian Contested Identity during the Ukrainian Political Crisis in 2013–2015 150
 - 3.1.7. Politicisation of Language Policy in Post-Euromaidan Ukraine (2016–2017)..... 155
- 3.2. Language Policy in Latvia after 1991 158
 - 3.2.1. Ethnic Composition of Contemporary Latvia..... 158

3.2.2.	Legislation on Language Policy in Latvia	162
3.2.3.	Educational Reforms and Language Policy in Contemporary Latvia	168
3.2.4.	The Referendum on the Russian Language in February 2012	175
3.3.	Language Policy in Contemporary Estonia	179
3.3.1.	Ethnic and Linguistic Composition of the Population	179
3.3.2.	Characteristics of Language Policy in Post-Soviet Estonia	180
3.3.3.	Legislation on Language Policy in Contemporary Estonia	186
3.3.4.	Educational Reforms and Language Policy in Contemporary Estonia	194
3.4.	Summary of Chapter III.	200

Chapter IV.

Public Debates on Language Policy within the Discourse of the Russian-Language Blogs and on News Websites in Ukraine..... 211

4.1.	Digital Media Landscape in Ukraine	211
4.2.	Public Debates on the Role of Languages in Education in Ukraine	213
4.2.1.	Educational Reforms of D. Tabačnyk in 2011–2012 ...	213
4.2.2.	Debates on the role of Languages in Education in Ukraine in 2013–2015	221
4.3.	Public Debates Devoted to the Approval of the Law 'On the Principles of the State Language Policy' in 2012..	234
4.4.	Public Debates on the Role of Languages in Light of the Russian-Ukrainian Conflict (2013–2015)	250
4.5.	Public Debates on the Abolition of the Law 'On the Principles of the State Language Policy' in Ukraine in 2014	271

4.6. Public Debates on the Adoption of the New Language Laws in 2017	287
4.7. Summary of Chapter IV.....	303

Chapter V.

Public Debates on Language Policy in the Russian-Language Blogs and on News Websites in Latvia..... 309

5.1. Online Media Landscape in Latvia	309
5.2. The Minority School Reform in 2003–2004.....	311
5.3. Public Debates Devoted to the Referendum on the Status of the Russian Language in Latvia (2012)	329
5.4. Public Debates on the Future Educational Reforms (school reform–2018)	354
5.5. Summary of Chapter V.	380

Chapter VI.

Public Debates on Language Policy in Russian-Language
Blogs and on News Websites in Estonia 385

6.1. Online Media Landscape in Estonia.....	385
6.2. Public Debates on the Minority School Reform in Estonia (2010–2015)	386
6.3. Public Debates Devoted to the Approval of the Language Act in Estonia in 2011.....	398
6.4. Public Debates on the Activity of the Language Inspectorate in Estonia (2013)	405
6.5. Summary of Chapter VI.....	423

Chapter VII.
Comparing the Discourses of Language Policy in Contemporary Estonia, Latvia, and Ukraine.....	427
7.1. Similarities	427
7.2. Differences within Estonian, Latvian, and Ukrainian Discourses of Language Policy	431
7.2.1. Rhetorical and counter-rhetorical strategies	433
7.2.2. Argumentation patterns	435
7.2.3. Social actors	438
7.2.4. Identity	439
7.3. Argumentation Patterns and Keywords.....	440
References	449
8.1. Literature.....	449
8.2. Materials.....	467
8.2.1. Blogs, Articles on News Websites	467
8.2.2. Comments in Blogs and on News Websites	482
Appendix
Important Ethnopolitical Events in Estonia, Latvia, and Ukraine and the Selected Internet Sources.....	499
Index	503