

Table of Contents

Introduction	7
Acknowledgements.....	13
Chapter 1. Masquerade, or “Maintain your reputation!”	17
The son of the nomenklatura	18
An asocial profile in the Moscow underground scene	21
Fleeing the city.....	22
Getting ready to leave	27
A stopover in Vienna.....	29
A North-American nomad.....	32
Sasha Sokolov, the lecturer	36
Soviet Union, toccata and fugue	40
“An eternal student of the globetrotting department”	42
Chapter 2. On Early Trains, or Beyond Sasha Sokolov’s Twilight Cosmos.....	51
Emotional proximity	52
Classification difficulty	56
Close reading attempts	60
Sasha Sokolov’s baroqueness.....	82
Chapter 3. Pictures from an Exhibition.....	87
A language to compose texts.....	88
A sound architecture.....	95
Triptych ’s music.....	100
Voices on stage.....	114
Triptych ’s “theatre of pure reason”	121
Chapter 4. Theory and Play of Proezjia	133
A long proetic tradition	134
A choice of awareness.....	138
A baroque macro-genre.....	140
In Lieu of a Conclusion.....	145
References	151