

Table of Contents

Editorial	IX
PART I:
PHILOSOPHY.....	1
Tamara Albertini & Piotr Pietrzak
“Clarity is what I seek first”
(Interview with Prof. Tamara Albertini).....	3
Galina Raykova
Hegel’s Recollection and Ricoeur’s Imagination	19
Joseph Thomas Milburn
Identity and Globalised Culture: A Network Approach	31
Koumparoudis Evangelos
Information Society and a New Form of Embodiment.....	41
Andrea Giuseppe Rago
Reinventing Politics: An Epistemic Conversion of Information Technologies.....	59
PART II:
POLITICS AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS THEORY.....	75
Iga Kleszczyńska
An analysis of the economic and political determinants of today’s Venezuelan crisis	77
Bálint L. Tóth
HSR Projects in V4 Countries: EU-driven spillovers of Central East European transport development initiatives	107
Attila Mezei
Balance of Power Theory and the 21st Century: Iron Law of International Relations or an Outdated Idea?	133

PART III:
IN STATU NASCENDI'S REVIEWS & RESPONSES.....	151
Krzysztof Żegota
In response to Sergey Sukhankin, Russian Regionalism in Action: The Case of the North-Western Federal District (1991–2017).....	153
Piotr Pietrzak
A brief introduction to the Journal of Romanian Studies, Vol. 1, No. 1 (2019)	156
Piotr Pietrzak
In response to Katherine Verdery's "Notes on a century of surveillance"	158
Piotr Pietrzak
In response to Maria Bucur's "The Queen Is No Sister. Three Faces of Marie of Romania"	164
Piotr Pietrzak
In response to Marius Stan and Vladimir Tismaneanu's "Stalinism and Anti-Stalinism in Romania: The Case of Alexandru Jar Revisited."	167
Call for Papers	173
Biographic Notes	175
What We Stand for in Nineteen Different Languages.....	179
Coming up next in In Statu Nascendi	185