

Content

List of Figures and Tables.....	11
Acknowledgements.....	13
Introduction.....	15
1. Higher Education and Social Democracy in Transition	23
1.1. Some General Considerations.....	24
1.2. Changes of Higher Education Systems	27
1.2.1. Literature on Higher Education in Sweden and Germany	33
1.3. Social Democratic Governments and Policy Orientations.....	36
2. Theoretical Considerations	49
2.1. The Political and the Academic Subsystems – Talcott Parsons	51
2.2. Issues of Legitimation	55
2.2.1. Legitimation Crisis – Jürgen Habermas	56
2.2.2. “Compensatory legitimation”	63
2.3. Bringing Actor into the Picture – Actor-Centered Institutionalism.....	67
2.6. Understanding Policies in theoretical Terms.....	76
3. Hypotheses and Questions.....	81
3.1. Central Questions and Contributions to ongoing Scientific Debate.....	84
3.2. Hypotheses for Analysis.....	86
3.3. Research Questions for Analysis	90
4. Methods and Methodological Considerations	97
4.1. Comparative Method.....	98
4.1.1. Justifying a Comparison between Germany and Sweden	101
4.2. Document Analysis	106
4.2.1. Classifying and Approaching Documents	109
4.2.2. How to Contextualise Translations?	112

4.2.3. Quantitative and Qualitative Content Analysis	114
4.2.4. Elaborating Higher Education Policies of Social Democratic Governments – How I went along	118
4.3. Using Statistical Data	121
4.4. What has not been covered	126
4.4.1. Certain Aspects of Equality	126
4.4.2. Student Aid	127
4.4.3. The “East-West-Dimension” in German Higher Education	128
4.4.4. Expert Interviews	129
5. Political Steering and Higher Education in Sweden and Germany – An Overview	131
5.1. The Structure of the Systems of Higher Education in Sweden and Germany	131
5.1.1. Sweden	132
5.1.2. Germany and North-Rhine Westphalia	139
5.2. Governance Structures and Actors	146
5.2.1. Sweden	147
5.2.2. Germany and North-Rhine Westphalia	150
5.3. Intermediate Structures between the Political Sphere and the Academic Sphere	154
6. Policies of Higher Education in the 1960s and 1970s – Massification, Diversification and Distributive Policies	157
6.1. Sweden	159
6.1.1. The U68-inquiry	160
6.1.2. Enacting the “Rolling Reform”	163
6.2. Germany and North-Rhine Westphalia	167
6.2.1. The Concept of Comprehensive Universities	169
6.2.2. From Reform-Optimism to Pragmatism: Governmental Speeches ..	171
6.2.1. North-Rhine Westphalia: 1966 – 1979	175
6.3. Policies of the 1960s and 1970s	179

7. Policies of Higher Education in the 1980s and 1990s – Decentralisation, Quality and Efficiency.....	183
7.1. Sweden.....	184
7.1.1. Bringing Women in – The Tham-decree	187
7.1.2. The Promotion-Reform	191
7.2. Germany and North-Rhine Westphalia	193
7.2.1. Continuing with “old” Ideas – Administration of the Status quo	195
7.2.2. Supporting Women in Academia	199
7.3. Policies of the 1980s and 1990s.....	209
8. Shifts in Policy Orientations – Discussion of Empirical Findings	213
8.1. A shift from an Input- to an Output-Oriented	215
8.2. A Shift from the Working Class towards Women as a Target Group	226
8.3. Higher Education and Social Background	229
8.4. Higher Education and Sex / Gender.....	240
8.5. Issues of Segregation.....	248
9. System and Actor in Crisis – Discussion of Theoretical Implications....	249
9.1. Legitimizing Social Democratic Governments in Transition.....	252
9.2. Persistent Orientations and Lack of Intersectionality	255
9.3. “Compensatory Legitimation” and Sources of Expertise	268
9.3.1. Mediation between Political Levels	273
9.3.2. Mediation between the Political Sphere and the Academic Sphere .	279
9.4. Avoiding Complexity and the Utilisation of Expertise.....	291
Conclusions	293
Literature.....	299